C. Action Items

Action Item 1: Investment Advisory Committee

Ms. Volpi presented information regarding investing authority. House Bill 13-1297: Concerning Authority of Certain Institution of Higher Education to Invest Moneys (“Mines Treasury Fund Bill”) was passed last legislative session. This bill provides Mines with greater clarity and flexibility in managing and investing funds. The bill clears up existing ambiguity on whether gifts made to “Colorado School of Mines” instead of “Colorado School of Mines Foundation” can be invested as part of CSMF’s long-term investment pool by Mines. The Bill provides governing boards authority to manage and invest all or a portion of its moneys outside of the State Treasury. With the bill’s passage, the Board can now invest long-term funds such as the Petroleum Institute with CSMF’s long-term investment pool or other investment vehicles. CSM Board’s statutory authority related to its money now matches other institutions (CSU, CU, Colorado Mesa University).

The legislature placed the following requirements on Mines’ governing board when the Board elects to invest moneys outside of the State Treasury:

- Establish an investment advisory committee consisting of at least five members. The members of the committee MAY include the Board Treasurer and up to three representatives from the financial community.
- Develop and annually review a written investment policy, which shall include acknowledgement of fiduciary responsibility and performance benchmarks of financial managers.
- Submit an annual report to the State Treasurer, State Auditor, and Joint Budget Committee.
- Shall ensure that, at all times, liquid investments remain at a sufficient level to pay for all budgeted, outstanding operational obligations and expenses occurring within the fiscal year.

At its October 14, 2013 meeting, the Investment Advisory Committee reviewed and discussed a proposed Investment Advisory Committee Charter and a proposed Investment Policy Statement. After discussion, the Committee approved the charter and policy statement for recommendation to the Board of Trustees. The Committee also discussed the School’s cash position (attachment 3) as of September 30, 2013. After discussion, the Committee approved for recommendation to the Board of Trustees to invest the Petroleum Institute Funds totaling approximately $11,355,000 with the Colorado School of Mines Foundation to be separately held in their long term investment pool. The Committee further recommended to invest when received an amount owed to the Petroleum Institute totaling approximately $2,427,000 with the Colorado School of Mines Foundation to be separately held in the Petroleum Institute fund within their long term investment pool. The trustees inquired about investment with the CSM Foundation, which charges a tiered 2% maximum long-term investment fee. Funds will be co-mingled for investment, separated for accountability purposes.

The parties subsequently entered into an Addendum to the Operating Agreement dated June 13, 2013, to address the development services fee to be paid by the School to the Foundation on an annual basis for services related to the School’s capital campaign, pursuant to and consistent with the parties’ Operating Agreement.
